Early Western Manuscripts in The National Library of Medicine

A Short-Title List

Introduction

The National Library of Medicine has in its collection ninety Western manuscripts written before the beginning of the 17th century. Cataloging information for these manuscripts is fragmented and, in the case of recently acquired pieces, unavailable to the scholarly community. The following short-title list is intended as an interim bibliographic tool, a means of providing access to these manuscripts until they are added to NLM's on-line catalog, CATLINE.

Information about some of NLM's manuscripts are recorded in Dorothy M. Schullian and Francis E. Sommer, A Catalogue of Incunabula and Manuscripts in the Army Medical Library (1950) and Seymour De Ricci and W. J. Wilson, Census of Medieval and Renaissance Manuscripts in the United States (1935-1940), supplemented by C. U. Faye and W. H. Bond, Supplement to the Census of Medieval and Renaissance Manuscripts in the United States and Canada (1962). Those manuscripts added to the Library's collection since 1950 are not recorded in Schullian and Sommer, nor are the 14 added since 1962 recorded in the Census.

This short-title list provides seven types of information for each manuscript:

1. The De Ricci/Bond and Faye number, by which the list is arranged. [Numbers in square brackets indicate manuscripts not recorded by DeRicci/Bond and Faye.]

2. Schullian and Sommer number.

3. The reel number of an NLM microfilm, for use when microfilm copies of the manuscripts are ordered through interlibrary loan.

4. Names of authors, sometimes abbreviated, but established within the name authority structure of the NLM.

5. A short title of the work.

6. The century the manuscript was written, when known or inferred with certainty.

7. Miscellaneous notes.

Although this short-title list is the only complete listing of all NLM's manuscripts, it does not contain complete cataloging information. The Census of De Ricci, et al., and Schullian and Sommer must still be searched for essential information. For more detailed information about manuscripts listed here but not included in the previously published book catalogs, scholars may address:

History of Medicine Division

In addition to manuscripts held by the NLM and described briefly here, the National Library of Medicine also has a microfilm collection of six hundred medical manuscripts held by European libraries. The records for these films do not appear in CATLINE or in any book catalog, but there is a detailed manual catalog in the History of Medicine Division. Specific questions about authors, subjects, and libraries represented in this important collection may be addressed to the History of Medicine Division at the address above. Under the agreements with the libraries holding the original manuscripts, these microfilms do not circulate through interlibrary loan and cannot be photographically copied. They must be used in the History of Medicine Division.
