

March 27-1917

My dear Mrs. Driscoll,

I have just finished signing up my card of registry for service in the war. The University as I understand it has offered its entire equipment and each member of the staff is asked to say what he will do. I have put down -

1. Teaching in the Medical School
2. Working in a clinical laboratory
3. Making supplies & dressings
4. Cooking -

I put down that I had had training as a physician and a chemist and could speak German - Duch, I should hate to be sent to Germany as a spy - I saw ^{to ensure} that I should be afraid that I should talk against the Germans - and the reply was - I should only need to look -

The Hopkins will be made a base hospital and I think that the laboratory - may be used for teaching part of the time and for the rest of the time.

I have gotten over thinking that the red is in sight - One of our men who has just come back from England says that the English have become so efficient that they don't need us -

most distinguished of the English doctors, a neurologist, which seems to me quite thrilling. He has probably given us one very best analysis of the sensory side of the nervous system and has done a lot of medical work in the war, and this was probably written in one of his days of respite from the terrible strain. This

A letter from Carla sounds as every thing was really all right - out here. I was sorry that I told you about Edith - for it seems that it wasn't anything serious - I was myself much worried over what May had written - Carla's letter would make me long to go to California to see the roses if we weren't having

The Kiama is a beauty - It was a great surprise, I couldn't imagine what the

Starts me day. If the Mexicans and Germans don't march right-through this summer - what good times we shall have - unless the last two lines of Heald's poem come true for us - The German retreat is very puzzling - I feared that they might have mined the whole zone - but every one here says that it would be too expensive -

Mrs. Florence Kelly has just been here - She says that Baker the Secretary of War is an ardent pacifist - and Dr. Wood says that he bankrupted Cleveland

So it may be well if he resigns.

Dr. Lundy is going to China with the new Rockefeller Medical School - He is the Canadian who has been assisting me of whom we were talking - It's a fine opportunity for him and we are all glad for him - Our staff will probably be cut down one half next year -

I wish that you were here now to hear all the discussion about the war -

Very affectionately -
