THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
1335 H STREET, N.W., WASHINGTON 5, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF ANATOMY

May 22, 1958

Dr. Joshua Lederberg
Professor of Medical Genetics
University of Wisconsin
Madison, Wisconsin

Dear Dr. Lederberg:

I have been asked by our Committee on Curriculum to investigate the possibility of inaugurating an introductory course in human genetics at this institution. I would greatly appreciate a brief statement from you as to the scope of the course as taught at Wisconsin including the number and subjects of lecture material.

This interest on the part of our faculty arises from the Symposium on Genetics at Madison this spring and I hope I shall be able to convince the Executive Faculty as to our need for standardizing the material we present in genetics.

Very sincerely yours,

Ira R. Telford
Executive Officer and
Professor of Anatomy

IRT:plw