

On August 17, 1940, the United States attorney for the Northern District of Illinois filed a libel against 200 cases of oleomargarine at Chicago, Ill., alleging that the article had been shipped in interstate commerce on or about July 29, 1940, by the Miami Butterine Co. from Cincinnati, Ohio; and charging that it was adulterated in that a product containing less than 80 percent by weight of fat had been substituted for oleomargarine, a product which should contain not less than 80 percent of fat. The article was labeled in part: "Golden Maid Vegetable Margarine."

On August 29, 1940, the Miami Butterine Co., claimant, having admitted the allegations of the libel and having consented to the entry of a decree, judgment of condemnation was entered and the product was ordered destroyed.

On November 27, 1940, the United States attorney for the Western District of Tennessee filed an information against Donald B. Weiner and Douglass J. Thomas, copartners, trading as Thomas Bros. Candy Co., at Memphis, Tenn., alleging shipment within the period from on or about February 2 to on or about June 7, 1940, from the State of Tennessee into the States of Alabama, Arkansas, Missouri, Mississippi, South Carolina, and Georgia, of quantities of candy that was adulterated. The article was variously labeled in part: "Papa Stick"; "Truck'N The Candy Bar That Gives you Pep"; "Circus Brand Peanut Bar"; "Whole Meal Peanut Bar"; "Jumbo Penny Stick"; "Giant Peanut Bar"; "Peco Bars"; "Joe Lewis"; "72 Circus Brand Green Stem Apple Suckers"; "Old Fashion Peanut Bar."

The article was alleged to be adulterated in that it consisted in whole and in part of a filthy substance; and in that it had been prepared under insanitary conditions whereby it might have become contaminated with filth.

On December 12, 1940, pleas of guilty having been entered by the defendants, the court imposed fines totaling $500 against each.
